DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shneerov et al. (US Pat. 4,843,212) and Cary.

Shneerov et al. discloses a welding wire which is plated with copper. Welding wire is made from welding rods which are cold drawn to a diameter of 0.8mm. The ultimate tensile strength is 830 to 1320 MPa. Exact yield strengths are not taught. Cary discloses the mechanical properties which range from 450 to 830 MPa for tensile strengths and 390 to 740 MPa for yield strengths. The resulting ratios range from 45 to 88%. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to use the mechanical properties of Cary in the Shneerov et al. wire because these are drawn to the same welding wire products.

The prior art discloses a product substantially similar to a claimed product, differing only in the manner by which it is produced. It has been held that one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention would have considered the claimed compositions to have been obvious because of the similarity in the properties, and overlapping ranges. The burden falls to the applicant to show that any process steps associated with the claimed product result in a materially different product from those of the prior art, because there is nothing in the record before the examiner to reasonably conclude that applicant's product differs in kind from those obtained by the references. See In re Brown 173 USPQ 685 and In re Fessmann 180 USPQ 324.

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. See US PTO-892.
